British Good Faith Revealed In Troops Withdrawal

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Dublin, March 5.—Enormous crowds gathered for the opening of a campaign in favor of the acceptance of the Anglo-Irish Treaty. High enthusiasm was evinced and there was only one disorder, girls and women tearing down the Free State tricolor.

Mr. Michael Collins in the course of a speech defended the Treaty. Mr. Arthur Griffith said that the fact that British troops had been withdrawn was proof that Ireland had not been betrayed.

Dublin, March 6.—Enormous crowds are gathered for the opening of the campaign favoring the acceptance of the Anglo-Irish treaty. High enthusiasm is evinced.

There has been only one case of disorder; some girls and women tried to tear down the Free State tricolor but were "induced" to desist.

Michael Collins made a speech defending the treaty and Arthur Griffith said that the withdrawal of British troops was a proof that Ireland had not been betrayed.

Limerick, March 6.—Armored cars are patrolling the streets under orders of the Free State military authorities to counteract rival units of the Irish Republican Army from Cork, Tipperary, and Clare Counties who commandeered hotels, declaring that they intended to uphold the proclamation.

The Mid-Limerick Republican Army commander refused to recognise the provisional government.

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—Mr. Winston Churchill announced in the House of Commons today that a large force of Republicans had seized Limerick city and that the British Government would best discharge its responsibility to maintain law and order, by leaving the Provisional Government to take action.

(2) An iron foundry for Chikiang.
(3) To make full investigations and preparations for the installation of a water power plant in Chungking.
(4) An iron works for Luchow.

Goes To Her Wedding On Stretcher

SCENES of much pathos marked the wedding in London, recently, of Captain Cyril Newall, R. A. F., to Mrs. May Dulcie Weddell. The bride, a handsome woman of twenty-seven, was crippled in a riding accident in Italy a year ago and had to be carried from a West End nursing home to the Registrar's Office.

LONDON HEARS LLOYD GEORGE IS TO RETAIN POST

Press Association Says Political Crisis Is Past

(China Press Service)

London, March 6.—The Press Association says authoritatively that it is reported in political circles that the crisis has been terminated by Lloyd George's decision to continue in office, in response to the urgent appeals of his Unionist colleagues.

London, March 6.—Lloyd George returned hurriedly yesterday from a week end trip to Chequers Court. In political quarters it is believed that the climax of the crisis will not be reached before Tuesday. The Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Churchill conferred with the Premier at Downing Street today.

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—There was considerable activity in political circles on Sunday evening. Mr. Lloyd George returned from the country in the afternoon, and had a long conference with Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Churchill. Subsequently, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Austin Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour, Lord Curzon and others attended a dinner party at Lord Birkenhead's residence.

The Prime Minister discussed his position with the Conservative leaders who continued in their efforts to persuade him to remain in office, but his decision is still doubtful.

The Westminster Gazette says that there is a growing assumption that Mr. Lloyd George will resign and that the Coalition Ministers will go with him.

Mr. Lloyd George, whenever the doctors will permit him to travel, will go to Wales on a long holiday. He will then return to town, afterwards proceeding to Genoa.

Mr. Austin Chamberlain presided at a Cabinet meeting today in the absence of Mr. Lloyd George, who is slightly indisposed.

HARDING ASKED WHETHER ISHII PACT WILL STAND

Senate Resolution Calls For Expression Of Opinion

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 6.—The Senate has adopted a resolution, presented by Senator Borah, asking President Harding how the Lansing-Ishii agreement was affected by the Four Power Treaty.

Prior to the adoption of the resolution, Senator Underwood contended that the agreement should be wiped out by the series of Conference treaties, because a new arrangement had been substituted to define rights in Pacific.

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 6.—Senator New, a close friend of President Harding and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee opening the treaty discussion on behalf of the administration said that there was no alliance implied in the Four Power Treaty nor was there any obligation to use force.

He declared that the Quadruple Treaty gave the United States a safeguard for peace and did not impair American sovereignty. He said that the Washington treaties were "co-operative but the League of Nations was drastic and compulsory."

Regarding the provision for conference and determination of procedure in case of aggression he said that the Root-Takahira agreement contained similar clauses. In closing he said:

"For a decade we have had obligations with Japan couched in practically identical language, yet nobody suggested that this constituted or resembeld an alliance."

Washington, March 6.—Japanese aggressions in Siberia as a menace to world peace were given as the reason why he would not support the Four-Power Pact in its present form by Senator Hitchcock although he promised to vote for both the Arms limitation agreement and the Chinese treaty as well, in the Senate today.

He characterised the Quadruple pact as being a response on the part of the United States to Britain's demand that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance be dropped. Senator Hitchcock said that the treaty must be amended to provide that concerted action by the powers concerned should be taken only in case of unprovoked aggression.

In this connection he cited the action of the Japanese in Siberia and intimated that war with Russia would be the legitimate outcome of their high-handedness.

STILL "CONFIDENT"

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—Replying to Mr. J. R. Clynes, Mr. Harmsworth said a copy of a memorandum dated December 18, 1921 issued by the Envoy Plenipotentiary of the Far Eastern Republic at Moscow, in regard to the actions of the Japanese in Siberia, had been brought to the attention of the Government, which was confident that the Japanese Government would fulfil its pledges in regard to the evacuation of Eastern Siberia.

The first formal function will be the inspection tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock of the French Municipal Police force in the Koukaza Gardens. BURGLARS TAKE $5,000 IN JEWELS FROM HOME HERE

Residence Of Mr. T. H. Harris On Broadway Is Robbed; Two Suspects Held

Mr. T. H. Harris, general manager of the China Merchants' Lower Wharf, and for 38 years a resident of Shanghai, was the victim of a daylight robbery on Monday when thieves entered his home and stole jewelry valued at $5,000.

The theft occurred sometime between 4 and 6 p.m. and was not discovered until Mr. Harris went to his living apartments above his offices at 101 Broadway, to dress for dinner.

He noticed that the upper left hand drawer of a large chest of drawers in his bedroom had been forced open and that about 10 or 12 pieces of jewelry, the property of Mrs. Harris, had been taken. He notified the police immediately and two suspects, former servants in the Harris household, were arrested.

The jewelry, with the exception of one gold bracelet, consists mostly of diamonds, set in pendants, brooches, earrings and rings. Diamonds are more difficult to dispose of than metal and Mr. Harris believes that part of the property may be recovered.

The thieves obtained entrance to the Harris apartment despite the fact that six servants were about the premises.

SAILOR IS HELD IN U. S. COURT FOR STABBING

Member Of Crew Of Shipping Board Vessel Charged With Attempted Murder

Iver Keinaman, who was an oiler on the United States shipping board steamer West Momentum is to be tried in the United States Court for China on a charge of attempted murder, having been held on this charge yesterday at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing that was held before U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

Keinaman is alleged to have stabbed Charles J. Moench, also a member of the shipping board vessel's crew, on Chinese New Year's eve. He has been held in the American jail since the alleged assault occurred pending Mr. Moench's recovery.

At the hearing today Mr. Moench testified that there had been a disturbance in the mess room on board ship and that he had gone down to stop the noise. Keinaman, he said, was intoxicated, and an argument had ensued. The next morning, without warning he said, Keinaman had met him on board and stabbed him in the back.

Keinaman did not take the stand in his own behalf. Mr. Schuhl ordered him held for trial in the higher court and set bail at $2,500. Judge Franklin of Honolulu is defending Keinaman in the first case he has had in the local courts since establishing law offices here.

Johannesburg, March 7.—The Strike Executive has called a general sympathetic strike.

Johannesburg, March 7.—The Strike Executive's decision to call a general strike represents at any rate a temporary victory for the Extremists.

A conference of the strike committees of the whole Reef having rejected the Industrial Federation's decision to take a ballot on the question of returning to work, well-informed circles consider that this new phase may rally the waverers and add a fortnight to the duration of the strike.

SYNDICATE MUST PAY FRENCH BANK 12,500,000 FRANCS

Peking Company Loses In Suit Based On Banque Failure

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—Advices from Paris state that the Commerce Tribunal has heard the action of the Banque de France against the Peking Syndicate and the Societe Maritime du Pacifique in regard to the payment of 12,500,000 francs worth of Bills drawn by the Societe Maritime du Pacifique in favor of the Peking Syndicate, which endorsed them and handed them over to the Banque Industrielle de Chine. The Bills were subsequently discounted by the Banque de France.

The dispute really is between the Banque de France and the Peking Syndicate, which endeavored to free itself from the obligation, contracted by its responsible director M. Andre Berthelot.

The Syndicate pleaded that the transaction was null and void because the notice had not been regularly delivered at its registered address in London, through Diplomatic channels.

The Tribunal, in its judgment, declared that the Peking Syndicate was duly served with a notice. In view of the importance of its Paris branch, and of the position held by its responsible director, M. Andre Berthelot, the securities had not the apparent character of accommodation Bills, and the signature of M. Andre Berthelot had validly pledged the Syndicate in terms provided in the Statutes, and the Banque de France as a regular third holder was entitled to exact payment.

VOICES CARRIED 400 MILES TO SEA BY RADIO PHONE

Two Hours Conversation Between Land Station And Steamer

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 6.—A new epoch in the development of wireless telephony was marked by a two hours conversation by ordinary telephone between New York and the steamer America, which was 400 miles out to sea.

The steamer was called up over land wires from New York to a wireless station on the New Jersey coast, whence the messages were automatically transmitted through a radiophone apparatus to the steamer. A newspaper representative on the steamer then telephoned to the listening reporters in New York the story of the doings of a band of Americans aboard, who had served in the Foreign Legion in Morocco, which was published in all the morning newspapers.

Calls Outlook In India Very Grave

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 7.—The guests at the Oriental Circle dinner last night at the Lyceum Club included Sir Bhownagree Dalal, of the India Office, Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, the Chinese Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Ohta, the Japanese Consul General, Dr. Chiang, of the Peking University, and others, including ladies. Mr. Shrimpton Giles presided.

Replying to the toast of India, Sir Bowhnagree Dalal expressed the opinion that the situation in India was at present very grave. The suggestion of handing over the native states to native administration, and doing without British administration, was untenable and would constitute almost a betrayal of the people. The great cause of the present difficulties was the establishment of the system of Western education.

Responding to the toast of Japan, Mr. Tokutawa said that the forthcoming momentous visit of the Prince of Wales to Japan, which was keenly awaited all over the country, coupled with the renewal of the Alliance embodied in the new pact, was calculated to cement still further the relations between Great Britain and Japan.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, March 6.—According to a telegram from Berlin a mass meeting of nationalist ex-officers and soldiers was held today to protest against the extradition of war criminals, demanded by the Allies. Conditions In Ship Building Yards Worse

UNIONS "LEGAL"

Order-In-Council Rescinded—Echo In Commons

Hongkong, March 7.—There has been a partial return to work of the domestics. The rickshaw and chair coolies and the tram services have resumed, while the men in the printing and newspaper establishments have also returned to work.

Conditions in the shipbuilding and repairing yards have become worse, their steam launch hands having also gone on strike. Even the coolies and excavators engaged in the construction of the new dry dock at Kowloon have struck.

All the Kowloon special constables were required to report themselves this morning. Enrolment is continuing zealously, and special constables of all nationalities are patrolling in large numbers. The military precautions have not been relaxed.

This morning a Chinese fife and drum band, headed by the banner of the Seamen's Union, paraded the business quarter of the city.

The men at the Taikoo and Admiralty shipyards have returned to work.

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 8.—In the House of Commons Mr. Winston Churchill was heckled regarding the proclamations of the Governor of Hongkong.

Commander Kenworthy asked whether this policy of conscription of labor had the Government's approval. Mr. Churchill replied that he should have thought, judging by Mr. Kenworthy's views in other directions, that the policy of conscription of labor in Hongkong would have excited his enthusiasm, as much as it did in Russia.

Mr. Kenworthy later asked if Mr. Churchill approved the measure of forced labor, would he send his apologies to Moscow. Mr. Chamberlain said he thought if any apologies had to be tendered to Moscow, a very suitable ambassador might be found.

Replying to Col. John Ward on the Hongkong question, Mr. Churchill said that they would naturally leave it to the men on the spot to deal with an emergency, but that it in no way abrogated the deciding functions of the Imperial Government.

He added that any question of reducing the British troops at Hongkong to half a battalion would not be considered by the Government, without full regard for the existing conditions at Hongkong and its neighborhood.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, March 7.—A Gazette Extraordinary issued today rescinds the Order-in-Council of February 8 declaring three Chinese labor guilds to be unlawful societies. The Chinese are now permitted to leave the colony without passes.

LECTURE ON BIRDS OF DEEP INTEREST TO A.W.C. MEMBERS

Andrew Allison Delights Audience At Carlton Cafe

Mr. Andrew Allison, of James Sprunt Academy, Kiangyin, delighted a large audience at the meeting of the American Woman's Club yesterday afternoon at the Carlton Cafe with his informal lecture on "The Birds of China." Many children were present and the budding ornithologists followed the speaker with keen interest, taking notes which will doubtless form the text of many a school composition or reappear in the story contests of THE EVENING STAR.

Mr. Allison is a bird enthusiast but he rides his hobby not as a fanatic, but as a genial humorist and his address was lightened with mirth and seasoned with poetic appreciation. In spite of the admirable system of bird protection which prevents the boys of today from making the large collections of nests, eggs and specimens which were the trophies of earlier collectors, Mr. Allison says that adequate acquaintance with our feathered friends may be made with the aid of binoculars and books, aided by those simple but indispensable agents the seeing eye and the hearing ear.

"Many Shanghai residents," went on Mr. Allison, "are unaware that the great mystery of bird migration is opening up again. Almost any misty, rainy, warm night from now to the middle of May any interested bird lover who will notice will find the sky full of birds, more than are seen by day and by listening may hear faint tinkling or whispering bird music as the procession passes by all night. It is a thrilling experience to realise this migration and I advise you all to look for it."

LITERATURE LIMITED

"The field of bird literature in China is limited, Moffat's book being practically the only thing available, but the Royal Asiatic Museum has a useful collection of specimens and the very markets in Shanghai are a mine of wealth. Don't try to identify birds of China by American books. It cannot be done."

Running rapidly through some thirty birds which he guaranteed could be found in the environs of Shanghai, Mr. Allison endowed each with a distinct personality and interest, such as "the Old World Cuckoo, that bird of reprehensible social habits which nationalises its children;" the rook colony, formerly to be found in raucous profusion in the trees of the little park at Soochow and Szechuen Roads; the reed warbler, "another of the commonest of birds;" the skylark which begins to sing when soaring upward, continues till it is almost invisible but still pours out melody for as much as half an hour before it descends to earth; and the matrimonial misfit of Mr. and Mrs. Indian Oriole, the male of rarely melodious note, the wife with a rasping whine.

At the tea hour Mrs. Gardiner Crane announced that the Fair, originally planned for April, would be postponed till fall, and women from the different sections of the States were asked to register with Mrs. J. W. Nichols for committee service.

MRS. SAILOR PRESIDES

In the absence of Mrs. Raven in Foochow, Mrs. H. P. Sailor, second Vice-President, presided at the meeting. Rev. A. R. Kepler presented the matter of the entertainment of delegates to the National Christian Conference to be held in Shanghai May 2-11 and urged the American community to open its homes to the 600 visitors expected from China and abroad. At the request of the club the Chair appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. Fred J. Sites and Mrs. A. P. Parker to take this matter in hand.

Mrs. H. A. Wilbur announced that of the 300 books reporting the work of the Literary Department all but 30 had been sold, many outside the American Club circle, such as Danes and Russians having purchased copies.

The next meeting of the Department will be held at the Royal Asiatic Society room Friday, March 17, the annual business meeting for the election of officers being held at 4:30, admission by membership ticket. The usual program, a paper on "Bronzes", given by Mrs. Harrison King of St. John's, will be presented at 5:00 and all interested are invited to attend.

Mrs. M. P. Walker announced that the election of officers for the Music Department will take place at Mrs. Hardarson's rooms at the Astor House on Thursday, March 9, at 4:30. Immediately afterwards a paper on "Modern Composers" will be given by Miss Mitchell and various musicians will illustrate the subject. All interested are invited to the general meeting at 5 o'clock.

The Social Service Department announced that its regular meeting would be postponed, further notice to be given later.

Mrs. Van Buskirk announced that Mr. George Fry would give his paper on "Vocational Training" before the Mothers' Dept. on March 15, at 10 o'clock at the Carlton Cafe instead of on May 3. Mrs. Hiltner announced that the Mothers' Department's plans for the Easter Egg Rolling for all members' children up to ten years old were being made and that the celebration would probably be held in Jessfield Park on Easter Saturday, April 15, further announcements to be made later.

GREAT POMP AT LAST RITES FOR GENERAL CHIANG

Peking, March 4.—The funeral of the late General Chiang Kuei-ti, which took place this morning, formed one of the most interesting spectacles which Peking has recently seen. It attracted a huge crowd of foreigners and Chinese and for fully an hour and a half the southern section of the Hatamen street presented a vivid picture as the long procession with its brilliant and picturesque pageantry, slowly made its way through the dense crush of humanity which filled the street.

Prior to the departure of the procession from the residence on Tsui Hua Hutung, Mr. Shou Ying, representing the Manchu House and Mr. Huang Kai-wen and General Yin Chang, representing the President, performed sacrificial rites before the coffin. The body was then conducted with all the customary ceremonial pomp to the Chien Men Station.

At the head of the parade came a "Ming Ching" with the official title of the deceased inscribed upon it, then a long series of title boards bearing the record of the late General's career, dating from before the Sino-Japanese war up to the time of his death. These were followed by an imposing pair of lions constructed of fur-needles and a group of gorgeous red silk embroidered umbrellas presented to General Chiang by the populace of various places where his troops were stationed, in recognition of his services. The bands of the Presidency, the Metropolitan Police, and Peking Gendarmerie were posted at intervals in the procession and their music lent a solemn note which was belied by the gaiety of the colors.

Among the interesting features of the parade were: bodies of Buddhist Priests, Lamas and Taoist priests, many flags and fur-needle sedan chairs presented by various influential personages in and outside the Government, a tablet from President Hsu Shih chang inscribed "For meritorious service on the frontier" and bearing the signature of the President as a sworn brother of the deceased, another tablet from the Mongolian princes of the Ghonwuta and Chekentu tribes in token of gratitude for General Chiang's services at Jehol, a yellow sedan chair with an Imperial decree from the ex-Emperor conferred upon General Chiang for his services before the revolution, two yellow umbrellas bearing Buddhist characters, presented by the ex-Emperor, a papier mache motor-car and ricsha, a troop of horsemen from the Yichun bearing flags and wearing symbols of mourning, several companies of Yichun infantry and detachments of the Metropolitan Police and Peking Gendarmerie.

The huge catafalque was preceded by members of the Yichun staff attired in mourning and bearing long streamers of white stretched out in front of the coffin.

A large party of officials marched before the catafalque and behind it the carriage of the family party formed the rear of the parade.

Various shrines were erected at points along the route, before each of which the coffin halted for brief sacrificial services.

MOUNT VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION AGAIN PEOPLE TERRIFIED

(China Press Service)

Naples, March 6.—Vesuvius again is in eruption and inhabitants of this and other cities in the danger zone are terror-stricken. This eruption, it is feared, may surpass in magnitude those of recent years, and the fact that molten lava has flowed from the crater rouses forebodings that even the classic eruption that buried Pompeii, Herculaneum and Stabiae, may be exceeded.

This eruption began two days ago with the collapse of the 200 foot eruptive cone inside the crater which occasioned mild earthquakes. The ground tremors were accompanied by a rumbling deep in the bowels of the earth that terrified the people more than earthquakes of double the severity would have done.

Then came the explosion which shot incandescent stones miles high, while a great pall of ashes and steam hung over the volcano's summit. This was followed by a flow of lava, the second in the history of the volcano, which pursued a tortuous course from the fissure known as Spartacan, for two miles over the countryside, through many vineyards that produce the wine known as lachrimi christi.

The flow of lava ceased yesterday, but the peasants are fleeing to this city to take refuge in the churches. They assert that this lava flow is only the forerunner of widespread damage that they say has been predicted, to end in the destruction of the whole cone.

Since the excavation of Pompeii and Herculaneum, the volcano Vesuvius has been under almost constant study by scientists whose observations do not confirm the peasants' fear of further great eruptions because of the lava flow. The destruction of the three ancient cities in 79 A. D. came about through a fall of ashes and condensed steam which made a rain of mud, succeeded a little later by muddy avalances that slid from the ash-covered slopes of the mountain.

In December, 1631, occurred a second great eruption of ashes and mud, in this case accompanied by lava flows, that reached the sea at 18 different points. Although ample warning had been given, 18,000 persons lost their lives, being trapped by the lava flows. The ashes were carried as far as Constantinople while the mud flows swept over the plains reaching even to the foot of the Apennines. The property damage was enormous as the countryside was uninhabitable for a decade after the eruption.

The Spartacan fissure mentioned in the despatch presumably is that through which Spartacus and his gladiators are fabled to have escaped when the top of the mountain was surrounded by Roman soldiers hunting them down.

WRITER OF SEA STORIES DIES OF GAS HEATER BURN

(China Press Service)

Venice, California, March 6.—John Fleming Wilson, author, is dead as a result of burns suffered yesterday when his bathrobe ignited from a gas heater. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1877.

Practically every newspaperman who worked in San Francisco prior to 1910 knew and loved John Fleming Wilson whose kindly disposition and ability to lend a hand to those in trouble, endeared him to every member of the craft. He was the founder and first president of the Press Club and held this post for several years, as long as he would retain it in fact, resigning only after he had put the club financially on its feet.

He was a Princeton man and a student of literature both ancient and modern, but it was with men that he worked and men more than books formed his mental grist. To this his thrilling sea stories whose charm depends on the mental picture created rather than the incident depicted, bear ample witness.

The untimely death of John Fleming Wilson is a distinct loss to American letters as few of the younger writers had shown the power in interpreting life at sea or set forth the romance of the new marine that has been created by the change from sail to steam as he has done. His was a pen of promise that all too soon has ceased to flow.

SHIFT CHINESE WARCRAFT

Admiral Doo Sih-kwe, Commander of the Second Squadron of the Chinese Navy, has ordered five warships to various ports to act as a protection against any movements by the Canton forces, according to the Chinese press.

FIGURES REVEAL GREAT INCREASE IN USES OF GAS

(Chung Mei News Agency)

New York, Feb. 19.—The order for four gas heaters recently placed by the Emperor of Japan with an American firm becomes public at the time when the reports of the American Gas Association show that in the United States appreciation of this great modern convenience has not grown less as the use of electricity has increased.

Statistics gathered by the association show that the manufactured gas business of the United States took on 2,617,000 new customers last year, increased its meters in use by nearly 500,000 and broke all records by running up its total annual sales of gas to a new high figure of 319,838,000,000 cubic feet. This is more than three times the amount of gas consumed in America twenty years ago and more than double the amount used ten years ago according to the association. The computations, the association explains, include all the 966 gas companies of the United States.

The increased use of gas in the home and the growing popularity of gas-burning appliances have been particularly marked during the last few years, it is stated. For example, the association reports 6,670,000 domestic cooking appliances in use, an increase in one year of 260,000, while gas water heaters of all types now number 1,423,000, or an increase in one year of 100,000. Altogether there are in use in American homes 9,317,000 gas-burning appliances of all kinds and in addition 10,000,000 incandescent burners, the report shows. To take care of the service demands imposed upon them in a single year by the addition of 620,000 additional gas-burning appliances the gas companies have increased their output 20,000,000,000 cubic feet.

The report also indicates that the use of gas for industrial purposes is steadily increasing, until there are now more than twelve hundred different ways in which it is being utilised.

The later correspondence being published is a continuation of that published in 1920 and again sets forth in detail the proposals of the company. The views of the Council on the various plans suggested also are set forth and in particular the plan to establish a freight carrying service by tram again is disapproved by the Council.

Ricsha And Wheelbarrow Still Stand-Bys Here But They Put Brake On Traffic

China is still China, and despite the inroads of automobiles and other modern transportation devices the two-wheeled ricsha invented by a missionary and the are still the principal mode of one-wheeled awkward wheelbarrow passenger and cargo transportation in Shanghai, according to the annual report of the Shanghai Municipal Council.

The number of authorised public ricshas at present is 8,000 which, the report says, is in excess of public requirements and merely clutters up Shanghai's transportation.

"Were the number of licenses materially reduced much of the touting and obstruction that now exists despite rigorous police action, would disappear" the report states. During the year 3,268 public ricsha licenses were confiscated and 7,840 suspended for various breaches of licenses conditions.

"Conveyance by private ricsha is becoming increasingly popular," the report states "and the obstruction caused by them when ranked in the business streets during office hours where all available road space is needed for vehicles in motion is already serious. The sharp rise in the number licenses can mainly be attributed to the discomforts attaching to travel by tramcar during the rush hours, and to the increase in the Exchanges in the heart of the business district. The practice of ricsha pullers running abreast is a principal cause of obstruction to other and faster traffic and causes much complaint."

The report states that it is proposed to prohibit such practices in the future and if owners and pullers disobey instructions both will be prosecuted. Sikhs are already stationed in the principal streets during rush hours and instruct ricsha pullers to stay in as close to the sidewalks as possible and to travel in single file.

Handcarts and wheelbarrows are still the motor trucks of China also according to the report.

"The bulk of the cargo and building material landed or used in the Settlement is still carried by these two slow and cumbersome forms of transport," the report states. "Instead of decreasing as was hoped with the advent of motor traction, their number tends to grow. The marked boom in the building trade has led to roads in the outer districts being badly damaged by these narrow tired, heavily loaded vehicles."

The lowering of the fee for handcarts with wider tires has encouraged owners to discard the old narrow type but a large number of the narrow road-ruiners are still operated the report says.

Carts were responsible for 3 deaths and 79 people being injured during the year, and ricshas and wheelbarrows caused injuries to 6 foreigners and 55 Chinese.

Millinery Shop Lawsuit Resumed In British Court

The hearing of the suit filed by Messrs. Seth, Mancel and McLure in the British Supreme Court as trustees of the property of Mrs. Tatiana Linoff Arcus, a bankrupt, against Miss Emily Moore was up again yesterday before Judge Peter Grain.

The cross-examination of Mr. Hutton was taken up by Mr. Newman, counsel for the defendant. Mr. Hutton said the whole business of Maison des Modes in the Astor House block was turned over to the creditors by the solicitors for Mrs. Arcus.

I put it to you that there was nothing more than a friendly arrangement. It was only to be a received by consent?—At that time I had nothing to do with the committee of creditors.

Witness said he never saw the assignment of the lease. Judge Ross came into the shop and asked him to get out. Mr. Schuhl mentioned about the assignment, and also made the remark that the lease was transferred. The late Mr. Edward Ezra had also told him that the lease had been transferred. Mr. Arcus has shown him a power of attorney that he had from his wife, which was in Russian, and in producing that document remarked that if witness cared to send in his claims they would be met in fully Witness had told Judge Ross and Miss Moore that the business was assigned over to the creditors. He admitted having written a letter in which he stated that Mrs. Arcus was in the habit of changing her mind.

What is your opinion of Mrs. Arcus, I mean your opinion of her commercial morality? Did you find her perfectly honest?—I should say not.

On one occassion you told Miss Moore that she was an extremely plausible person?—I did.

Witness said that he had written to say that the attitude of the creditors was that Mrs. Arcus should not go to Paris. He felt that if she left the creditors would lose a valuable partner. Her presence in the store would be essential to the success of the business. Just before Mrs. Arcus left Miss Moore asked him whether she would lend Mrs. Arcus Tls. 1,600 to release some goods that arrived through the American Express Company. That was on May 28. It was the first day that he saw Miss Moore. He told Miss Moore that it would be injudicious for her to put any money into the business, which might be taken over by the creditors at any time. He also knew a fortnight before making arrangements with Mrs. Arcus' solicitors that a New York firm had obtained judgment in New York against the store, and he understood from his own solicitor, that judgment could be sent down to Shanghai and enforced here against a Russian subject. Messrs. Ellis and Hayes had written to state that the assets of the business were worth about twenty percent. In his opinion if she was forced into bankruptcy the assets would be worth considerably more than 20 percent. They would be worth between 60 and 70 percent. This was exclusive of the fixtures, good will and lease.

How could you seriously consider Mrs. Arcus a bankrupt, after obtaining the estimate of assets and liabilities that you did? Her own solicitors wrote to say that she was unable to carry on the business. I was only creditor.

Democrats Launch Bi-Annual Fight On Republican Rule

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 8.—The republicans during their control of Congress since 1918 wholly failed to make good pre-election promises. They have failed to grasp true economic conditions or apply sound remedies. Therefore, said Cordell Hull of the Democratic National Committee, having defeated the 1919-1920 Democratic reconstruction programs, the Republicans are now proposing the same remedies to restore conditions.

President Harding's administration enters its second year with Congress grappling with the Arms Conference treaties, the Soldier Bonus, the permanent tariff, the ship subsidy appropriation bills and scores of other measures.

Republican leaders have forgotten that there ever was such a thing as a June adjournment and are now talking about a July wind-up.

The unemployment conditions are bettering, the Labor Department reports. March is expected to see a rapid decrease of the number of unemployed.

This announcement is being used by the Republican press as a text for commendatory editorials, while the opposition press says it is the natural course of things which the Republicans failed to turn into adverse channels.

CHANG TSO-LIN OPPOSES SCHEME OF EX-OFFICIALS

Shantung Industrial Corporation Plan Dangerous, He Says

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, March 6.—Plans for the formation of an industrial corporation, headed by ex-Premier Chin Yun-peng and ex-Finance Minister Pan Fu, who are anxious to capitalise the restoration of the Shantung Leased Territory to China, are meeting with the whole hearted opposition of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, according to an exclusive statement made here today by one of the Manchurian Marshal's advisors.

It is Chang Tso-lin's conviction, says this authority, that Chin Yun-peng and Pan Fu have proved by their public records that they are unfit to manage anything of a public nature. Therefore General Chang proposes to fight the issuance of a charter to the Chin-Pan combination; and it is believed here that the Mukden general has enough influence in Peking to ensure his success in this fight.

In taking over the Shantung Leased Territory China will, thinks General Chang, be on trial before the whole world. The publicity given to the Shantung Question at Paris and Washington has aroused the world's interest in the future of the Leased Territory, and much now depends, as far as China's future is concerned, on the ability of the Government to administer the Leased Territory efficiently.

Chin Yun-peng and Pan Fu are, Marshal Chang admits, both Shantung men, and as such it is to be expected that they should take an interest in the political and industrial development of their province. On the other hand Marshal Chang is quoted as saying that corporations established for the development of salt fields, mines and such industries are naturally of a semi-public character and that charters for such corporations should be granted only to men of recognised probity.

Neither Chin nor Pan have shown such probity during their official careers, according to General Chang Tso-lin, who has accused Chin of making over $5,000,000 for himself during his premiership through the sale of public offices, while Pan Fu is believed to have netted for himself by the same means as much as $50,000 a day towards the end of his career.

Marshal Chang has, it is stated, threatened to hang Fu on sight if he enters Manchurian territory; and it is an open secret in Chinese officialdom that Chang Tso-lin compelled Chin Yun-peng to resign last December by telling Chin that the alternative was impeachment and trial before the Supreme Court for the sale of public offices. So Chin Yun-peng followed his fellow-spoilsman, Pan Fu, into retirement and saved some of his face, all of his head and most of his money.

Some of the officials concerned with Chin Yun-peng and Pan Fu in alleged official mal-practise are still employed by the Government, according to Chang Tso-lin's advisor, who states, however, that these men are of small official importance and that the Mukden Marshal has had no time to attend to their cases.

Water Company Asks $37,844 In Suit On Contract

What promises to be an interesting suit for damages was up in the British Supreme Court yesterday before Judge Peter Grain, in which the Watson Mineral Water Company claims from Mr. Wilfred J. Haynes of 33 Seymour Road damages to the extent of $37,844.30 with interest.

The plaintiff recites that such damages were caused to the Watson Mineral Water Company by reason of the defendant's action in connection with a certain agreement entered between the plaintiffs and the defendant on May 29, 1919, and also a certain indenture entered into between the plaintiffs and defendant on June 18, 1919.

Mr. Holcomb appeared for the Watson Mineral Water Company, and Mr. Macdonald for the defendant. Mr. Macdonald applied for pleadings to be taken in the case also for discovery, which were granted.

Mr. Frank W. Hadley, American attorney, was appointed Assessor in his place, but refused to accept the appointment.

Races Scheduled On Both Local Tracks Saturday

First Time In History Two Courses Conflict; Postponed Hunt Meet Cause

Shanghai on Saturday will have, for the first time in the racing history of the city, meetings both at the City Track and at Kiangwan.

The unique situation comes about through the postponement of the annual meeting of the Shanghai Paper Hunt Club from last Saturday because of rain and because of the full card for week-end racing both at Shanghai and at Kiangwan up until the time of the regular Spring Race Meeting.

The formal announcement of the selection of Saturday next for the running of the postponed Paper Hunt Club meet on the city course was made yesterday. The meeting conflicts with the regular fixture of the International Recreation Club at Kiangwan. Never before have the two tracks held meetings on the same day.

All of the arrangements including the program, with its entrants and all conditions as applying to last week's date for the Paper Hunt Meeting apply to Saturday's meeting. Nine races will be run, of which four are to be steeplechases. The Club Challenge cup will feature the card.

The first saddling bell for the Paper Hunt meet will be rung at 1:15 p.m. Members of the Race and Paper Hunt Clubs and holders of grand stand and complimentary tickets will be admitted to the members' enclosure and members' pari mutuels through the Bubbling well entrance. The public will be admitted at the public entrance at No. 14 Mohawk road. Tiffins, teas and refreshments will be served after 12:15 p.m. The public band will render popular music during the afternoon.

Racing at Kiangwan Saturday also commences at 1:15 p.m. The program has not yet been issued. A limited number of members tickets of admission to the members' enclosure can be obtained from the secretary. The general public will be admitted at the gate. Special trains to the track will leave Shanghai at 11:50 a.m., 12:20 and 1:15 p.m. The usual one minute auto service from garages will be maintained. Tiffins and refreshments will be served at the course.

Hongkong First Round Billiards

Hongkong, Feb. 28.—In the first round of the billiard championship played at the Victoria Recreation Club last night, Ng Sze-kwong defeated J. C. Wilson, 500-447. The former's highest break was 33 and the latter's 23. Some splendid play was witnessed in the match between L. A. Osmund and J. Gresson, the final score being 500-391 in favor of the former. Osmund scored freely and consistently with in-offs while Gresson gave a good exhibition of cannon play.

Am'n School Five Beat Chinese In Series At Tokio

Tokio, Feb. 21.—The American School in Japan won the deciding game of the series from the Chinese Y. M. C. A. basbetball quintet Saturday afternoon, the final score being 17 to 14. The American five led by only one point at the end of the first half, 6 to 5, but in the last period the margin was increased two more. Kobolinsky, who has starred for the Americans this year, was unable to play, his place being filled by Ted Down who scored 1" of the 17 points. Down's place a forward was taken by Fred Pepper. The Chinese won the first game of the series 21 to 16 in extra time, and the second game went to the American School 22 to 14.

S'hai College Beat S. E. U. Basketeers

The Shanghai College basketball team met the Southeastern University five this afternoon in the home team's gymnasium and took the game in decisive fashion, 29-12. The local boys only made one goal from the floor, but were strong in shooting fouls. Shanghai guarded well and at no time were the Southeasterners in any danger of catching up with the visitors. The Nanking men played well in view of their lack of experience in intercollegiate contests and should improve considerably as the season progresses. Feng was the outstanding star of the Shanghai aggregation.

SAYS "BUGS"

Baer:

GINK FOWLER VICTOR AGAIN

His Word Was As Good As His Bond, But His Bonds Were Mexican

BY "BUGS" BAER

To Whom It Has No Concern:

I knew this Gink Fowler well. Met him during the Winter of the blue snow in either South or North Dakota. Possibly both at once. He joined Danger Gooby's smart set of lumberjacks on the polite branch of the Bad River. Gooby fed his men raw meat with swordfish for dessert. There was a little round-shouldered jumper in camp who was a push-over for a kick in the stomach. He had absolutely no protection against a double load of shrapnel.

His name was anything you wanted to call him. Gink took one look at this suburban youth and burst into tears. It was three weeks before Gink could go to sleep without the lights on.

By Spring, Gink was the pet of the outfit. He used to gather violets on the kitchen linoleum. He was scared of the wild flowers that grew on the banks of the Bad River.

Yours without notice, and subject to change on the same percentage.

PAUL BUNYAN.

From Bad River.

You may be a Bunyan to your uncle, but you're only a corn to us. Don't try to burley us with that Bad River business. That's the worst foolishness that is being established since prohibition came back again.

Bad River? Gink used to wash his face with lion tears. He thought a wolf bite was a caress.

Don't try to make a chump out of civilisation. Bad River? Well, Gink made a rowboat out of a paper hat and used his ears for sails. He sailed up the Bad River looking for more trouble than the green-eyed monster can make at a fancy dressed party given in honor of the prettiest girl on any island in any ocean.

Gink was more trouble than a jag on cough medicine. He was determined that Bad River was going to have a new bully. And also set pretty to chart the course of Bad River for the Dandruffian Society of Non-Partisan Tug Boats. He found that Bad River was formed by the junction of Tough Creek and Rough Canal. The water was not where these two places of obstinate water bumped into each other, and steam rolled off it like vapor from a vat of Tommy Lipton's tea.

When the water got so hot that it was nothing but a lavaliere of bubbles, Gink took off his earmuffs and jumped in. He wadded up Rough Tributary to Madhouse Branch, where the river got smaller and meaner than a Democratic minority in Congress.

Gink wanted to know where all this Bad River business came from. He followed it and followed until the river got so small he had to trade his water wings for a bicycle. You're a liar yourself. Nobody but Gink could have trailed the wild river to its den.

At its mouth, where it slapped into Bazook Ocean, this Bad River was seventy miles narrow from bank to post office. It was full of waves and there was murder in every drop.

Well! Well! Well! When Gink trailed that Bad River thing to its source, where do you think it started?

Stop and think, if you've got to stop to think. Why, Bad River started from a leak in Gink's own kitchen sink.

K. W. Irle, Shanghai's Best Basketball Player

Irle captained the Bearcats which tied the Strokeside at the conclusion of the Foreign League play, and established for himself by his heady playing the reputation as Shanghai's best. Throughout the schedule he played out of his real position, which should be at guard, but with fine basketball judgment and thorough acquaintance with the game as it should be played he finished the season standing out far and above the rest of local stars. Irle's forte, in his game this year, was brilliant dribbling, and uncanny shots from long range. He was the backbone of the Bearcats' offense, and was responsible in great part for their strong showing this season.

YANKS TRY HARD TO FIND A SUB FOR BABE RUTH

The Yankees bought two outfielders this winter but they were not Bob Veach nor Bib Falker nor yet Harry Hooper, all of whom have been mentioned as possible props in the outer gardens until and after Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel return on the afternoon of May 20. The pair of newcomers were Ed Neusel, said to be a conterpart of his near namesake, Bob Meusel, and O. D. Tucker, declared by Scout Bob Gilks to be another Babe Ruth. Both are youngsters who have never been up with the majors before, and they will be taken to the training camp at New Orleans, thus increasing to thirty-four the size of the squad that Manager Miller Huggings will load below the Mason and Dixon line.

In addition to this pair of acquisitions the Yanks have received signed contracts from six players. They were Catcher Al De Vermer, second-string receiver last year; Infielder Norman McQuillan, recalled from the Rochester International League Club, and Pitchers Tecarr, Culp, Quinn and Wilson, all young twirlers who will get their first trial with the Yankees this Spring. With the contract of Glenn Killinger, Penn State football star, already reposing in the office safe, the Ruppert-Huston forces now have seven players under a 1922 contract.

Neusel, one of the two new outfielders, was picked up by Scout Bob Connery at Coffeyville, Kan, the home of Walter Johnson. Neusel is said to be a slugger on the order of Ron Meusel. The other recruit, Tucker, was discovered in the Georgia State League, where his batting average last season was a mere .434.

Tientsin Plan Tourney, Friday

Tientsin, March 5.—Tientsin is all set for the Boxing Tournament scheduled for Friday at Gordon Hall, and if all indications hold good, the evening should be one that should furnish ring history locally.

The star bout of the evening, that for the local middleweight title between Razee and Frye should be a whirlwind from the tap of the gong, from the way the dope reads. Frye, of the Peking Marines is in the pink of condition, while Razee brings quite a rep with him. He is touted from the West Coast and Manila as being fast, fairly clever and possessed of a knockout in each mitt.

Another bout of interest will be a lightweight affair between Ortega of the Infantry, a former professional and Kelly, another marine, both welterweights. A middleweight bout between Stout and Farmer, and another affair between Ferguson and Bates are also attracting some attention.

The card also includes wrestling bouts for North China titles.

Knockouts Feature Card At Hongkong Tournament

Only Two Bouts Out Of Six Go Limit; Two Scrappers Hit Floor; Two Quit

Hongkong, March 1.—Three knockouts, one boxer in dire distress forced to retire, and two other bouts going to decisions sums up the eleventh tournament of the Hongkong Boxing Association held here at the Theater Royal on Saturday. The program which was composed for the most part between British sailors off men-of-war in port furnished excellent boxing interest.

Callaghan of the British ship Ambrose knocked out Hambley of the Hawkins in the final. Callaghan had the advantage throughout the round and a half that the fight lasted and found it easy to put his man away. Hambley substituted for Stoker Morgan of the Hawkins who refused to go on when he learned that Callaghan outweighed him by 19 points. Callaghan tipped the scales at 157, and Hambley weighed in at 155.

Seaman Bowdidge, 160 lbs., of the Carlisle obtained the decision over Groves, 156 lbs., of the Hawkins in the semi-final, on a big advantage in points scored through the earlier rounds.

Duncan, 161 lbs. of the Magnolia outclassed Lewendon of the Hawkins for two rounds knocking him, flooring him twice and finishing with a knockout. The other knockout was administered by Sergeant Tribe to Warder De Dear, both welterweights. De Dear led off with telling aggressiveness for two rounds, when Tribe got in some severe punishment to the body. In the third round Tribe floored his man three times, the final blow leaving De Dear unable to continue.

Sansford of the Durban quit to Russell of the Hawkins in the opening welterweight bout, in the first round. The former opened strongly while Russell confined himself to easy jabbing until a good opening came, when he put the Durban man through the ropes, leaving him in such distress that he retired.

The real tit-bit of the evening was the 10-round featherweight contest between Chadwick of the Marazion and Hindle of the Curlew. The men fought cleverly and cleanly and evenly almost the whole distance. Chadwick however was given the edge and the decision.

Flip Of A Coin Decides Salary On Ruth's Contract

CONGRESS GETS FIRST SHIPPING BOARD REPORT

Chung Mei Foreign Service

Washington, Feb. 18.—The first complete accounting of the activities of the United States Shipping Board, for which Congress has already appropriated more than three million dollars, and the prediction that at the end of two years this drain on the Treasury will cease, are contained in the recent testimony of Chairman Lasker of the board before the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives. In presenting to Congress, with some conscious pride of accomplishment, the first balance sheet ever compiled by the Shipping Board reflecting the true relations of assets and liabilities, and submitting the only inventory of its property ever made, Chairman Lasker admitted that the net gain or loss to date on the voyage operations of the managing agents could not be answered from the books. He asserted, however, that so far as the financial outgo is concerned, it is under the absolute and positive control of the board.

HALF WASTED

The outstanding revelations in this testimony are:

1. Of the 10,000,000 tons of shipping owned by the board, about 5,000,000 tons represents good commercial tonnage, comparable with any other tonnage in the world. The other 5,000,000 tons, built for war necessities under the stress of war, ranges from fair to poor tonnage and it should not be used by the American merchant marine because it cannot be operated profitably. The board has slightly more than 3,000,000 tons in operation today.

2. The net result of the commercial operations of the merchant fleet, because of lack of uniformity on the party of the agents of the Government-owned ships in keeping their books, will never be known. However, the "operating gains or losses, administrative expenses, and miscellaneous losses" are listed at $123,000,000 in the explanation of where the net appropriation by Congress of $3,306,000,000 has gone.

MILLIONS IN CLAIMS

3. Claims against the Shipping Board amounting to $291,000,000, with claims for the board of $76,000,000, are in the courts.

In the line of retrenchment Chairman Lasker pointed to the fact that 3,289 employes, drawing $4,942,319 annually, had been cut off the pay rolls since June 15, 1921. A saving of $14,000,000 annually in the physical operation of the fleet was claimed by the vice president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The excess of voyage expenses over incoming revenues, $1,896,644 in July, was reduced to $854,555 in November, it was pointed out.

In the progress in getting the Government out of the shipping business, it was stated that the United States government fleet had been reduced from 785 vessels on regular berths and fifty-one tramp steamers on December 31, 1920, to 390 berth steamers and no tramp vessels at the present time. Even with this reduced number of ships, no essential trade routes have been discontinued, and through the operation of the routes covered by the Shipping Board, an American merchant can ship his wares under the American flag to any port in the world.

In conclusion, Mr. Lasker said: "With an upturn in world trade with Government aid to private shipping, and with the appropriations for the next fiscal year that we have asked for the liquidation of claims, I can see within two years not only the loss of the Shipping Board permanently ended, but money coming into the Treasury and the essential trade routes maintained."

BLACK J. RUFUS WALLINGFORD HIT U. S. POSTAL SNAG

Organised 4,000,000 Negroes For Return To Africa

Chung Mei Foreign Service

New York, Feb. 19.—The recent arrest in New York of Marcus Garvey, "Provisional President of the African Republic," on the charge of using the mails to defraud, provides the climax to a bizarre career that lifted the West Indian negro from obscurity to mellifluous titles, hero-worship, and wealth.

As President of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, which at present is reported to have a membership of 4,000,000 negroes from all parts of the world, guiding spirit of the Black Star Line, the Universal Steam Laundry and other diversified organisations, he has been hailed by some of his race as a phenomenal promoter, statesman and prophet.

Specifically he is accused, as President of the Black Star Line, of advertising and selling passage to Africa on a mythical vessel. The Post Office Inspectors charge, too, that he used the mails to defraud in disposing of stock in the Black Star Line, the link between the United States and Africa of the future.

Some comprehension of the extent of his plans can be obtained from this: The Black Star Line alone is capitalised at $10,000,000. The Universal Negro Improvement Association is credited with 4,000,000 members. Each member pays 35 cents a month, 10 cents of which goes to the home office, the rest for expenses of the branch headquarters. At the last convention a special levy of $1 was placed on each member—a total of $4,000,000, making the financial possibilities, upon paper at least, rosy enough for the group of statesmen faced with the work of floating an African republic.

An extensive system of printed and verbal propaganda went with the practical work of financial and industrial organisation. Garvey is editor of the Negro World, devoted largely to the African and race problem from his standpoint.

Four months of investigation, prompted by antagonistic members of his race, led to the arrest of Garvey, whose explanation of the charges against him is that he was away at the time the alleged offenses occurred, and that members of the opposing faction in the organisation had sought to cripple his organisation.

Turkish Envoy Sees Near East Peace

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, March 6.—Yusuf Kemal Bey who has just arrived at Marseilles stated today to a Havas representative that not only would he represent Angora but the whole of the Turkish people in the next conversations. That Turkey had decided to throw back the invader energetically would also prove, he said, that she took every opportunity which she could to terminate war.

He congratulated the Franco-Turkish Agreement and declared that it was the prelude of the settlement of the situation in the Near East, dominated above all by the Turkish question. He hoped that after the conversations with the authorities of the Entente any doubt would disappear and that the other Powers would equally appreciate the pacific dispositions of the Turkish people.

PARIS WILL SEE DANCE BARRED EVEN BY BERLIN

Paris, Feb. 12.—A dance that is considered too shocking even for Berlin is to be produced at a Parisian revue soon. Celly de Rheidt, a German danseuse, who is now on trial in a court in Berlin, is the star performer, and a French producer has obtained the "attraction," paying a high price for it.

A curious fact in connection with the production of the dance in Paris is that Celly de Rheidt herself is forbidden to enter France. Presumably, therefore, the dancer who will be seen here will be her understudy.

STRIKE IN MEXICO

(U. S. Navy Radio Through Reuter)

Mexico City, March 5.—The newspapers are demanding energetic action against the electrical strike which has stopped the street cars and cut off water, light and power.

Soldiers are being maintained in sufficient plants to furnish light. There is much talk of a sympathetic general strike.

RED ANTS EVICT HOUSE TENANTS EVEN FROM BEDS

Paris, Feb. 12.—If you have taken an apartment for a month and paid a big rental for it in advance it is a little irksome to be evicted the day after you move in and without hope of redress. However, that is what is happening to American and other visitors in that part of France around Toulon.

The evictions are not carried out by bailiffs, but by formidable red ants. They have invaded the district in millions and are eating up gardens and even getting into beds, where they resent human company. The only way to keep them out of the house is to cover the carpets with gasoline, and even this method is not always effective.

The invasion is worst in the village of Tamaris, whence the inhabitants are fleeing and demand that the Government do something to rid the district of the pests.

Legion Seeks Jobs For 700,000 Men

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Chicago, March 5.—The papers announce that the American Legion has begun a campaign to find employment for 700,000 idle members of the Legion. The National Business and the Civic National Welfare organisations have been asked to co-operate and survey every locality by March 20. It is said the campaign will relieve 500,000 jobless men.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, March 5.—Unemployment conditions are growing better, the Labor Department reports. March is expected to see a rapid decrease in the unemployed.

Szechuen Province Plans 2000 Miles Of Macadamised Roads

Yih Chow News Agency

Chungking, Feb. 13.—Since the future of Szechuen is circumscribed by the extent to which it develops its communication facilities, it is proposed by the provincial government to build two thousand miles of motor roads within the province. As a means of properly administering a standard system for the execution of this program, a bureau of provincial road construction has been just created. The first plan to be carried out by the bureau is to build a road between Chunking and Chengtu, about 300 miles. The road is to be macadamized and is intended for motor traffic. There are also several other roads of importance being planned.

A foreign highway construction engineer has been employed by the Provincial Government and is now on his way to Chunking. Upon his arrival, which will be near the end of February, the survey will be started on the line between Chunking and Chengtu. After the preliminary survey is completed the construction work will begin.

The government is also planning to build a few lines of electric tramways in the vicinity of Chunking and Chengtu.

American Schoolboys Form Scientific Body

A scientific society known as the "Science Seminary" has been organised by the chemistry class of the Shanghai American School. The club meets once a month, at which time one member reviews briefly the recent advancements in science while another member presents a scientific paper. The latter part of the program is turned over to a social hour and general discussion of science. Four meetings have already been held and the main papers presented are as follows: "Invisible Radiations," by William Rice; "Mendelism," by Roberta White; "Chemistry in China," by Henry Waters; "Organic Catalysis," by Herbert Waters.

Clocks Run Faster At Night, He Says

(China Press Service)

Berkeley, Cal., February 15.—Clocks run faster at night than in the daytime, according to a discovery just announced by Dr. R. H. Tucker, an astromoner at Lick Observatory, which is conducted near San Jose, Cal., by the University of California here.

If Dr. Tucker's discovery is confirmed, then, his friends say, daylight saving has been in operation but unknown ever since Pops Sylvester II threw away his hour glass and invented the clock in 996. However, the time saved has not been very great.

An elaborate observing program was carried out at the observatory to test Dr. Tucker's theory, according to W. W. Campbell, director of the institution. Although the program has not been completed, Dr. Campbell said recently, the results thus far confirm earlier conclusions that the clocks do run faster at night.

The program included observations of three standard clocks and embraced a list of stars whose position are already known with high precision. Each night's observations extended from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m.

"The ultimate cause of the phenomenon is obscure," Dr. Campbell said. "In the observations by fundamental methods, where dependence is placed upon the constancy of the clock rate through the 24 hours of the day, more or less, these errors would reach their maximum values of between 0.02 and 0.03 seconds at about six hours from the mean epoch of the observations."

State Department Changes Announced

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 6.—Secretary Hughes soon will make public the resignation of Solicitor Neilson of the State Department. President Wilson appointed Neilson in recognition of his efficient work at Paris in 1919 as the American legal advisor in matters relating to the treaties and claims against the enemy governments, also the protection of the property of the United States in enemy countries. He was born in Denmark in 1879.

Clinton MacEacharan, assistant to Under-Secretary Fletcher becomes consul at Antwerp. Many other State Department changes are expected.

Helen Keller Talks To Blind, Deaf Girl

(China Press Service)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—Willeta Huggins, sixteen, blind and deaf girl of Janesville, and Miss Helen Keller, blind, deaf and formerly dumb, conversed with each other here, placing their hands on the face and chest of each other to interpret the vocal sounds.

They were able to understand one another without aid.

Britain's Oil Well Produces 78 Tons

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—In answer to questions in the House of Commons, Mr. W. C. Bridgeman said that the only oil-producing well in Britain at the present time was at Haeedstoft, where the production for the six months ending December 31 was 78 tons. Ko oil had been sold since last October, as it was difficult to dispose of it in small quantities.

The evidence of crude oil up to the present, he said, had not been sufficient to form an opinion with regard to the commercial prospects of oil-boring in Britain.

British Loans To China Made Under New Consortium

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. L'Estrange Malone, Mr. Harmsworth emphasised that the conditions, under which loans had been made to China by the consortium, were not laid down by the British Government but were contained in the new consortium agreement signed on October 15, 1920.

The Government, he said, would not support other banks or other financiers who might wish to make loans to China, if they conflicted with the spirit or the policy of the consortium agreement.

Envoy To Italy In Historic Home

(China Press Service)

Rome, Feb. 16.—Ambassador and Mrs. Richard Washburn Child are settled in the Orsini Palace, where they have given several official and non-official entertainments.

The new residence of the American Ambassador is one of the most characteristic of this city's princely houses. It is built on part of the remains of the Theater of Marcellus, a huge place of entertainment begun by Caesar and finished by Augustus thirteen years before the birth of Christ.

The apartment now occupied by Mr. Childs has several great reception rooms beautifully and richly furnished in antique style and contains many valuable pictures, frescoes and other works of art.

The palace is the property of the Duchess of Sermoneta, who was a Colonna, and she has let only her private apartments to Mr. Child. As the Duchess had said she never would rent her palace, news that the Ambassador had taken it aroused much interest in Roman society, where the lack of suitable homes is as much felt as elsewhere.

SHANGHAI, MARCH 8, 1922

WEATHER

The pressure rises in the valley and the weather will probably clear up. Strong monsoon along the coast to the South of Shantung. Moderate and variable breezes in the North. Rough weather between the Bonin and Japan.

BIRTH

BORN, On March 7, 1922. To Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Nichols a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, at Dr. Fearn's Sanatorium, 8½ pounds. 46582 M. 8

The Chinese Eastern Railroad

ONCE upon a time, it was Imperialistic Russia that refused to countenance the scheme to internationalise the Chinese Eastern Railroad. Today, the position is reversed and it is Japan who is fighting tooth and nail not only against the internationalisation of the railroad, but also the actual participation of Russia and China in it. In other words, Japan wants to squat down on the Chinese Eastern Railroad because of its exceptional strategic value to her as a necessary adjunct in connection with her scheme of continental expansion.

The recent searches for arms made by the Chinese authorities in the town of Harbin is but one of the many crafty subterfuges that Japan has engineered since the day she stepped on Russian soil. Grodekovo on the Ussuri railroad, which is just an extention of the Chinese Eastern Railroad, has acted in the past and will doubtless again act in the near future as the "plug" for wedging Japan's grip on both these railroads further and further into the flesh of both Russia and China. Harbin, evidently, has been selected as the field for activities that are calculated to give Japan a wider range over the Chinese Eastern railroad. This is particularly evident at the present moment when the governments of Moscow and the Far Eastern Republic are busily engaged in settling amicably with their big neighbor China. Japan naturally fears that a union between these two countries will bring them as victims of her own aggressive policy, to a common understanding in their own defense.

Russia and China both realise that by resigning themselves to a common fate mapped out for them by Japan they stand to lose their territories, so it is simply a case of "united we stand, divided we fall." This being the case, Japan means to take time by the forelock. Thus we witness the recent search in the town of Harbin under the plea of seizing arms that were supposed to be concealed. It is also revealed in the action of the Japanese Consul at Harbin who suggested to the Consular Corps the discussion of extraordinary measures for the protection of foreigners.

Another conspicuous fact is that the search was confined exclusively to the private residences and offices of persons, institutions and organisations known to be democratic in their political convictions. The reference to such words as "extraordinary measures" by the Japanese Consul at Harbin simply means the introduction of the Japanese Gendarmerie into the Russo-Chinese neutral railraod zone and then afterwards, for similar reasons, i.e. "extraordinary measures" it would be found necessary to reinforce the Gendarmerie which is deficient in that technical military skill necessary to defend the railroad from the attacks by armed bandits, the Red Beards, that are virtually in the pay of the plotters.

These self-same tactics were adopted by the Japanese in Vladivostok when they tried to take over the entire administration and charge of the railroad from Vladivostok to Pogranitchnaya. At that time, in order to provide a plea to obtain official Allied sanction to protect and guard the foreign residents in Vladivostok travelling on the railroad was made so dangerous that foreigners traveled by the public high way on motor cars. Sundry and systematic "hold-ups" were organised and some of the Consuls, to say nothing of the Commander of the American cruiser were robbed of their personal belongings, but the ruse nevertheless failed for certain of the Powers refused to have the wool pulled over their eyes.

Japan nevertheless is leaving nothing to chance for she is bent on possessing considerably more than a controlling interest in the Chinese Eastern Railroad and knows perfectly well that this cannot be accomplished by fair means; consequently she reverts to the other kind.

From the very commencement of the Great War, Japan sought and adopted measures to secure her political and economical hegemony in China. The very particular attention of the Ministry of War at Tokio was directed to Manchuria as being the important strategic and economic territory of Northern China. The Russian Revolution which followed in the wake of the Great War assisted the Japanese in their exploitation of Manchuria. At the present moment almost half of the trade of Manchuria is in the hands of the Japanese and in the territory of the Chinese Eastern Railroad there are many Japanese officials.

All this points to that particular part of Northern China as a Japanese colony and not an independent province of China. Japan has succeeded in acquiring an enormous influence over that territory. This is partly the result of her own policy. It is also due in great degree to the evident disinterestedness and laissez faire of other countries, all of which are so exceedingly occupied with their own distresses as to be unable to give the matter due attention.

It is this very circumstance that is affording Japan the present opportunity to indulge in little artifices such as the search that was made at Harbin the other day. Japan's only object is to secure a military footing on the Chinese Eastern Railroad and in order to obtain it trains have been stopped and passengers picked off the trains, Red Beard bands have fired at passenger trains and trains have even been thrown over embankments, all to demonstrate that the railroad is not being properly guarded, so that Washington, London and Paris will accept Japan's guardianship over the railroad in which case Japan would immediately increase her soldiery and influence in that territory.

Publicity And The Conference

By Oswald Garrison Villard

New York, Feb. 14.—Senator Borah, in his recent address before an audience of two thousand persons in this city, declared that the present Washington Conference was as secretive as the Versailles Conference. In this he is mistaken. This Washington gathering marks a tremendous improvement in the matter of giving out news. In the first place, Washington is smaller and for most of the correspondents there has been no language difficulty. In the next, the chairmen of delegations have been much more accessible, and, thirdly, their has been a much greater determination to see that the correspondents were informed. The Japanese, for instance, who at Paris were so inaccessible, have gone out of their way to meet the correspondents here, Baron Kato himself appearing on numerous occasions, with the aid of his interpreter. Finally, for several weeks past stenographic notes of speeches made in the committees have been freely placed at the disposal of the newspapers. This is certainly an innovation, yet I cannot see why, if these committee meetings are to be stenographically reported, correspondents should not be present to listen. We have had neither open diplomacy nor all the publicity that is possible. There ought to be more open sessions in such a conference and more public debate.

It is also a question whether there ought not to be an improvement upon the system of having a spokesman for each delegation who is not to be quoted. Mr. Hughes meets the correspondents every afternoon and answers such questions as he thinks he can properly reply to. Some of the questions asked him are foolish, some in questionable taste, and others would if answered require a reflection upon some other delegation. But Mr. Hughes can never be quoted; everything that he says appears as coming from "the spokesman of the American delegation," or as being the "opinion at the State Department." This camouflage deceives no one who understands the game and it has several times failed, as when it became known that President Harding held a different opinion as to whether the Four-Power Treaty covered the Japanese main islands from that voiced by Mr. Hughes. The press then broke right through the camouflage and told what Mr. Harding had said and what Mr. Hughes had said and no one was punished or rebuked for it. It is not an easy situation. Mr. Hughes has done his best to give news and has meant to be as frank and obliging as the system permits. But he has had to be silent many times and perhaps necessarily so on most days when delicate negotiations were going on behind closed doors.

By this I do not mean, of course, to defend secret diplomacy or anything approaching it. If there should be a succession of such conferences, every one of them should witness more and more publicity, more and more talking and negotiating in the open. There has been, naturally, much more going on behind the scenes here than has appeared in the despatches. The negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese have had many ups and downs, yes, even sensational twists and turns, that have not seen the light of day. There will be an inside story of this Conference to be written by participants and press observers as there was after Versailles, and we may not know all that has taken place until some time has elapsed, just as we shall not learn whether anything at all has been accomplished until we know whether any of the series of treaties resulting from the Conference has been ratified by the Senate.

As for the correspondents themselves, they have been divided into two groups: the cynics, headed by Frank H. Simonds, with his inevitable French slant, and the optimists from some of the conventional journals and magazines who feel that the millennium has come much nearer. Between these extremes stand those who feel that the Conference has to date achieved about 15 or 20 per cent of what it could have accomplished had it been bent on genuine disarmament and determined to take long strides toward ending war. It will be time to judge how much the Conference has accomplished when it adjourns.

Mr. Balfour started in to receive the correspondents, and bore himself nobly until one occasion in the British Embassy when he stood like a baited bull in the center of a circle of inquiring correspondents in the great ballroom. Everything went swimmingly until, when a pause came, a nasal American spoke up and said: "Say, Lord Balfour, tell us the population of the British Isles." Mr. Balfour, thus suddenly ennobled, scrutinised ceiling and floor very earnestly for more minutes and almost immediately thereafter other Britishers were found to meet the correspondents. The chief of these was Lord Riddell, about whom as much has been written as about any other figure at the Conference. He was careful to explain that he was not a government agent as he had been in Paris, but merely the representative of the British Newspaper Proprietors' Association loaned to the Conference in order to facilitate the getting out of news. Personally, he is very nearly an ideal man for the job as he is cynically humorous, witty, and affable, on good terms with everybody, extremely well informed as to the past and the present, while he knows just how to give out the news he is assiduous in collecting. To some it seemed as if he were merely a propagandist, but of this charge he is to be acquitted; at least he was no more so than any other spokesman for a country. It must not be overlooked, however, that he represents what is basest in journalistic life; his Sunday journal published in London, with an enormous circulation, deals in the news of the gutters. Not the least humorous incident of the Conference was the solemn mock defense of Lord Riddell's "ancient peerage" (awarded since Versailles) by one of his countrymen who insisted that, as beer had so often come into its own in the peerage, journalistic lubricity should not go without recognition. Lord Riddell himself did not hesitate to make fun of his own appearance in the pulpit of a Baltimore Episcopalian church of fashion in which he solemnly preached the sermon of a Sunday morning!

Mr. Hughes's conferences have also not been without their humor. There is one American correspondent who thinks that "M. Briand" means that the French Premier's first name begins with an "M." At least on every possible occasion he asks Mr. Hughes something about "M Briand's" latest position. The correspondents so enjoy the joke that no one has explained to the questioner what the "M" really means. But the sensation of these meetings in the reception room of the Secretary of State was furnished by the veteran of all correspondents, the inimitably charming Henry W. Nevinson of the Manchester Guardian. When Mr. Hughes announced that France would consent to no limitation of submarines and auxiliary craft Mr. Nevinson asked if that left England free to build all such craft that she wished to. Mr. Hughes replied that it did. Whereupon Nevinson, looking more than ever like a figure direct from a canvas of Velasquez, drew himself up to his full British six feet and solemnly and loudly replied: "Then she will!" Not even the Secretary of State could preserve his gravity, and Mr. Nevinson's private declaration of war upon France remains the hit of the Conference.

Asked the other day what man other than Secretary Hughes had made a great reputation at the Conference, my reply was: H. G. Wells. Certainly he overshadowed the English delegates, though there were many criticisms of his articles. Of course, he did not report the Conference; it was merely a background for his views. Even though it was evident that the interest of the series did not keep up until the end, his promulgating those views was one of the most worth-while things of the entire Conference. When its chief usefulness—its educational achievement—comes to be summed up Mr. Wells's contribution will prove to be very great. For at the outset he made people think: his gloomy views of the future of the world were of service in bringing our care-free and over-optimistic people to a better realisation of the wreck which the world today is as the result of the war and one of the worst treaties ever drawn.

By contrast with his knowledge and skill few of the "trained seals," as the journalists by profession call the ex-statesmen, lady novelists, ex-diplomats, and literary "fellers" generally, who wrote up the Conference in its early days, shone in any degree. They faded away early to the great relief of the working fraternity. So disappeared soon the lights of French journalism who came with Briand, men like Pertinax and Lauzanne, writers of tendency with a far greater reputation abroad than at home. They did not begin to bulk with the Japanese, for instance, whose solid phalanx of fifty writers and correspondents contains some charming men and a considerable number of strong liberal tendencies. The Chinese group, though much smaller, has also attracted attention, perhaps in large measure because public sympathy is so with them in their fight for the freedom of their country. It would be difficult to find a more amusing speaker than K. P. Wang, associate editor of the Shun Pao of Shanghai; like others he burns with patriotic fervor for his ill-treated country.

...ter the Americans, it cannot be denied that the contrast between them and the foreigners has not always been to our advantage. Our isolation in foreign affairs prior to the war did not lead to the development of a corps of political writers in this country as steeped in international relations and the significance of events political in other countries as are the French, the Dutch, the Italians, and the English. Even today the Washington corps is primarily concerned with matters domestic; not all went through the educative process of Versailles. Then, nearly all of our managing editors do not wish the development of men who write with a background of knowledge and experience in an editorial vein as does Frederick William Wile. If Pertinax took a job on an average American newspaper and tried to send in his views and opinions of events he would speedily be fired from the staff. Again, for most Americans the Far East is a closed book. Only the few men like Nathaniel Peffer who have lived there and speak the language of China or Japan really have the diplomatic history of the East of the last twenty-five years so completely at their fingers' ends as to understand at once that Mr. Root's five points for China, heralded by the ignorant as a new Magna Charta, are merely another of many avowals of virtue on the part of the Great Powers who have so persistently made a mockery of their professions soon after declaring them.

We shall doubtless have more American correspondents of the type of the representatives of the London Times, and of Mr. Maurice Low, of the Morning Post (who scored perhaps the biggest "beat"—on the Four-Power Treaty—of the Conference), Mr. H. Wilson Harris, of the London Daily News, and of Mr. J. G. Hamilton, of the Daily Chronicle, in the years to come, but only if some one can persuade our managing editors that expert training and knowledge in international reporting have a cash value and that these must be expressed by a well-informed and interesting personality and not by a merely mechanical reporter.

Finally, if all the truth about the Conference has not reached the public some of the fault lies deep in the nature of our press as well as in the methods of international relationships and the spell of the past. It takes a long while to break away from old customs and traditions and the old terms of a long since outworn diplomacy. Thus, it was very difficult for the best of the Englishmen to free themselves from their life-long habit of thinking in terms of spheres of influence and all the other cant and hypocrisies which have grown up in connection with the race of the imperialistic nations for world domination—a race that has cost humanity seas of blood and wealth incredible and is in itself the greatest scourge of the globe.

OUR BUND

There is a place within the gorgeous East,
That is, I'm told, they call it so at least—
The reason greatly I should like to know,
And all the answer is, that it is so.
Reason's a thing that's very hard to find,
You scarce perceive it in the manly mind,
And certain 'tis that in the female brain
There's no such thing has e'er been known to reign;
But still we'll call it gorgeous if you choose—
My halting words must suit the Public's views.

Its Description

There is a place (I must begin once more)
Upon the borders of the Whangpoo's shore,
To us it's called The Bund—a famous name—
Whereon doth walk the halt, infirm, and maim.
Sir Harry Parkes looks down the Nanking Road
Watching the trams take folk to their abode.
Sir Robert Hart, not very far away,
Sees that the Customs still hold sovereign sway.
The Bund was famed for beauty, so I've read,
That beauty friend, methinks, just now is dead.
From early morn until we go to sup
We find the Bund from end to end dug up.
At noon, when ceases the commercial hub,
We park our motors opposite the Club.

Its Traffic

Thither in vehicles of every kind.
And suitable to every man and mind,
The swift Rolls Royce conveys the lovely fair
To flaunt her charms and breathe the balmy air.
The humble rickshaw, creeping like a snail,
Conveys those lower down the social scale.
The brokers' traps pass by with lilting stride,
With occupants erect in bustling pride.
The Dog-cart, called so (so some wags declare)
Because within it lap dogs take the air,
Is not now often seen, but then I trow
A limousine they like just now. (Bow wow).

Its People

As hares in vain from fleeter greyhounds run,
Thus some poor youths the charms of clubs will shun;
And listless to the Bund will make their way,
Bewail their fates on Shanghai's shores to stay;
Cast scornful glances at the lovely fair,
With England's beauties, Shanghai's belles compare;
Talk spicy scandal, yes and talk it well;
(It is not only women this can tell)
Discuss the aspects of the latest strike,
The price of cotton, famine, and the like;
Sigh o'er the fluctuation of exchange,
Affairs of Sun Yat-sen they disarrange;
Of sporting triumphs tell the wond'rous tale
Till awe-struck griffins yawn, and gape, and quail.
Oft henpecked husbands tear themselves away
And o'er the Bund will innocently stray,
Brood on the sorrows of a troubled life,
Summed up and reckoned in one word—a wife.

War On Mental Disease

Boston is soon to begin a nation-wide movement against mental diseases. Through the joint efforts of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene and of the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene a series of parlor meetings is to be held with speakers who are authorities on this subject.

The National Committee and the State societies are fighting mental disease just as tuberculosis is being fought and conquered, by organized effort and widespread education, says The Boston Evening Transcript. More than 72,000 men were rejected from the draft army for mental and nervous diseases; 10 percent of the soldiers disabled during battle suffered not from wounds but from functional nervous diseases, and in Massachusetts alone, in 1921, an average of more than 20,000 patients were treated in State hospitals for mental disease, at a cost to the State of not less than $7,000,000. The committees plan to introduce the most enlightened methods of treatment for mental disease already adopted in Massachusetts and to advocate early examination and treatment.

Mystery Of Long Ago

Archaeologists Puzzled By Discovery Of Headless Egyptian Woman

BY THEODOSIA WALTON

She lay in a little rock chamber, fifteen feet under the surface. That she was undoubtedly dear to some one was evidenced by the jewels that were still around her. She had been dead nearly four thousand years.

On her breast lay a necklace of selected amethysts and carnelians, in groups of three. Placed at intervals were four large amethysts, inscribed with the name of Sesostris I., who reigned over Egypt B. C. 1980-1935. The girl of today would think a gift inscribed with the name of the donor a very egotistic offering. But this necklace of Sesostris I. is today the rarest in the world. To date, only one other inscribed necklace has been found, and this is in the British Museum, where savants gaze at its one stone with awe. Here is a necklace with four stones inscribed. Surely this dear, dead woman was the consort of an Emperor. Surely her tomb was one of the marvels of the ages, vying with the Taj Mahal in beauty.

But explorers have proven to their satisfaction that the wearer of this necklace was a woman of humble birth. For one thing, her grave was just a little rock-hewn space, narrow and rough. But the convincing evidence was the fact that, above the carefully shrouded body where the priceless necklace lay, there was no head. An Empress, no matter what her offense, would never be treated with indignity. Think of the thrill experienced by the archaeologist who has unearthed a gorgeous necklace, something unequaled in any other discovery, and then finds it on the body of a headless woman.

Dr. Clarence Stanley Fisher, who headed the Eckley B. Coxe Jr. expedition to Egypt, where these discoveries were made, and who brought some wonderful pieces back to the University of Pennsylvania Museum, will not commit himself or advance any theory regarding the probable cause of the beheading. One theory is that this was a woman of the people who had won the favor of the King. A woman who was so beautiful that the King wanted to proclaim to his world the fact that she belonged to him. But instead of "writing his name upon her brow" he had it inscribed on his most valuable gift to her.

Probably after she had gained fame and wealth she found that the most important thing was lacking, and that Love was worth all the jewels in the world. When she told this to the King he determined that no one else should have her and ruthlessly severed her beautiful head from her beautiful body. Perhaps she was wearing her jewels at the time. Perhaps she had discarded her wonderful jewels and appeared like King Cophetua's beggar maid, begging for her right to happiness. And when he refused this right and killed her he ordered her attendants to prepare a burial robe for her befitting her station, and adorned her body with the royal jewels as a proof through all eternity that she had been his.

She must have been a beauty, for the scientists found some other possessions in the lowly little grave at Dendereh. Placed beside her, within reach of her hand, lay a complete beauty outfit. The articles were a trifle larger than those found in the vanity box carried today by fair women, but they were of the same kind. A bronze mirror and three little jars of cosmetics were there. One jar was of alabaster and contained the black paint with which women colored their eyelids and made the ceremonial marks of beauty. Another of alabaster and a third of fine red polished pottery had contained aids to beauty which now were reduced to a fine powdery substance. The mirror was about five and a half inches across. It was not quite circular, but of the shape selected by many women of today, and, like the modern mirrors, had a long, narrow handle. When mirrors were first invented it is not known. In the Pentateuch it speaks of mirrors of brass being used by the Hebrews, and bronze mirrors were in common use among the ancient Egyptians, Geeks and Romans. What art must have been employed in make-up in those days! The mirror could not reflect if there was a shade too much rouge on the rounded cheeks, or the carmine for the lips a bit too vivid. The highly polished metal could speak of beauty but not of coloring.

But the headless woman was not the only one who had rare jewels. At Memphis, where Dr. Fisher worked during the Spring months, when the waters of the Nile are low, he came upon a reminder of another woman who had been wont to make herself more beautiful with the help of jewels. And about this discovery, too, there was an air of mystery.

Workmen excavating the walls of a town centuries old came upon a little packet of jewels tied up in a fine piece of linen. Only shreds of the linen remained, but the jewels were intact, each pendant, each bead and each amulet lying in the same position in which it had been placed 4,000 years ago. What they were doing there, isolated beneath the walls of some dwelling long since crumbled to dust, no one knew. Dr. Fisher admitted that he believed it was a secret hiding place. But why were they hidden?

Perhaps they belonged to a Juliet of many centuries ago who was loved by a youth whose very name was anathema in her home. The two young lovers stood it as long as they could, and then the maiden decided to run away. Carefully she wrapped her jewels in a small piece of linen, and dug a hole in the earth just outside the doors of her home. But before she had a chance to steal away something happened. Perhaps the plague came and wiped out the entire village. As the years went by the house fell into ruins. Then the whole town gradually disappeared and on its site arose another town, and later on another over that, through the centuries, until at last high over the buried treasures lay a great Roman city.

Then, town by town, these walls were excavated, and one day a lucky gang of workmen found the little packet of jewels, which now have traveled across the waters and are safely lodged in the University Museum. There is a beautiful necklace of gold shells, one of striped agate, two large beads capped with gold, and a choice assortment of amulets to protect the young lady from the evils which might threaten her.

In the group of amulets there is a little seated Isis, holding the sacred Horus on her knee; Sekhmet, the lioness-headed wife of Ptah, god of Memphis, is suspended from the large pendant; Horus himself stands alone with his crown on his head; Anhut, a strange figure with his tall headdress like a stovepipe hat, and Osiris are suspended from a small group of gold shell beads. These figures are all of solid gold and electrum, a mixture of gold and silver. There is a gold eye to avert the evil eye, and the most exquisitely wrought piece of all, a ram, crowned with the sun's disk, lying beneath the shade of a palm leaf. Although but an inch long, every detail of wool, head and the division of the palm leaf is indicated. Another small piece is a scorpion, his tail uplifted to strike. This has a human head, crowned with the sun's disk and a pair of horns. Eyes and lips are perfectly detailed, and inlaid in the back, as a suggestion of the fat body, is a pale sea-green beryl.

At Dendereh a mummy was found of the period about 300 B.C. A gold mask, with perfectly chiselled features, covered the head, and about the body was a covering of clay on which were inscribed hieroglyphics. Beneath this, in parts that had crumbled away, were seen beads, and, upon investigating, an elaborate bead covering was found wrapped around the body, over which the clay was put. On the breast of this woman, too, were found amulets to protect her from evil, and to make fair her passage in the other world.

Body after body was uncovered at Dendereh. Not all were accompanied by their jewels—the headless woman was the only one who had a vanity outfit—but all seemed to be women of a high social stratum.

How Words Originate And Are Accepted By All

Most people take their words (and their phrases too) ready made; that is, they learn a small vocabulary from hearing other people talk, and afterward, finding the same words in books and dictionaries, they are emboldened to use them in their speech and writing. If they ever wonder where these words came from originally it is in a vague, listless way, rather like the way they look upon mysterious astronomy.

If one pins a comparatively small class down to their actual knowledge of the English language one can learn something more definite but still nebulous. This small educated class really has heard of the Angles and Danes who impinged their language on the Picts and thus started the Anglo-Saxon boom. It will tell you also how Julius Caesar brought his cohorts into Britain and almost succeeded in making it a Latin speaking island.

Coming down to the year 1066, the same cultivated persons explain by means of the Conquest the large number of French words that have been more or less Anglicised that we use every day. And when we ask why there are so many German words in our tongue it is only necessary to recall the fact of a common Teutonic origin of the sailors and beachcombers who lived either in the fens or along the shores of Europe and England. They spoke what may be called a common language.

After Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Ben Jonson, Sam Johnson and other notable writers had introduced more Latin, Italian and French words into the language and invented a few of their own English may be said to have been finished. Really every language, including English, is extraordinarily conservative and resents new words. All the same new words do get into them. These words are sometimes required to describe new things in the arts, sciences, etc.

When Morse invented his code a handy word had to be made and so arose telegraph and a variety of derivatives. The airplane has given us in turn several new words. Slang gives us a novel word now and then.

For instance, the word "boycott" had no trouble at all in finding its way into our tongue and into most European languages. It arose from the treatment of Capt. Boycott of Lough Mask House in the County Mayo in 1880. "Boston," a new word for a new card game, got into the language earlier. It comes from the siege of our city Boston in 1775-76 and the moves of the game follow all the strategic moves in this military history.

Pomp, meaning a solemn procession, comes from the Latin word pompe, which was in turn derived from the Latin verb pempein, which means to send. Meddle, to mix, is a distortion of the word middle, but it has as good a place in the language now as its forebear.

Who knows where the word haberdashery comes from? Ask any man who sells neckties, collars and other little things to adorn (perhaps) the person of man and he hasn't the least idea. Look up the word in the standard dictionaries: the search will not be rewarded. It probably comes from the question in French "Avez vous du pote?" or avoirdupois, or it may come from the German question "Have you that?" Any derivation is really a guess.

Quite otherwise is the origin of the word humble pie. It comes from the eating by servants long years ago of pie made from the umbles, or entrails, of the deer.

There is considerable entertainment and not a little knowledge to be gained by looking up the origin of words. Why not add it to the list of popular indoor sports?

Again Figures In Suit

NEW YORK MAN IS NOMINATED U. S. MARSHAL

Harding Names Thurston R. Porter To Succeed Marshal Lurton Here

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 6.—President Harding today nominated Thurston R. Porter of New York to be United States Marshal for China.

Inquiry among American officials here has revealed that Mr. Porter, the newly-appointed marshal, is practically unknown to Shanghai. Mr. Nelson Lurton, who has held the appointment of United States Marshal for China, tendered his resignation some time ago, in order to resume his private law practice.

It is presumed that Mr. Porter's appointment, if confirmed, will take effect at once and that he will come to Shanghai immediately to take up the active duties of his new office.

The appointment or Leonard G. Husar, of Los Angeles, as United States District Attorney for China, announced some weeks ago, has not been confirmed here yet.

Famine Official Sore At Hoover

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 6.—Secretary Hoover's policies in Russian famine relief work were attacked in scathing manner by Mr. Hibben, a former official in the American Diplomatic service who returned from Russia recently. He appeared before the Senate agricultural commission to make his protest.

Hibben said that Hoover's attitude is really refusal of aid to some 19,000,000 Russians who are starving and if the United States follows the Hoover policy, only half of them will get food all the time or all of them food half the time.

"Why can't we do the whole job and do it well," he asked, saying in closing that there was every indication that the Soviet government would be permanent.
